G-BIACK- AN AWARD WINNING ORGANIZATION

PELUM - Kenya award

NGO of the year award

CFSC award

The GROW BIOINTENSIVE Agriculture Centre of Kenya (G-BIACK) was initiated by husband and wife Samuel and Peris Nderitu in 2008, with the aim of responding to the problems associated with increasing levels of poverty associated with food insecurity in the country.

G-BIACK's agricultural and vocational training programs provide rural farmers and their communities with opportunities to learn regenerative, sustainable farming methods, as well as other solutions to the issues of food security, family health, and poverty. G-BIACK has helped thousands of Kenyan small-scale farmers to increase the yields on their farms using the highly productive natural, soil-regenerative techniques of GROW BIOINTENSIVE. In addition to its general agriculture training programs, G-BIACK also provides separate programs for the most often marginalized group in the society, women and girls, including orphans and widows severely impoverished by the deadly effects of HIV/AIDS.

The GROW BIOINTENSIVE Sustainable Farming method that G-BIACK teaches alleviates poverty for rural families in three ways: it eliminates expensive chemical inputs; it is highly productive and replaces purchased food; its high productivity enables the farmer to produce excess crops and value-added products for income.

Pictured above are some awards we are very proud of:

1. Best Exhibitor by PELUM Kenya during the 2018 Participatory Ecological Land Use Management, PELUM Kenya Agroecology Day.
2. NGO of the year, awarded by the Ministry of Agriculture and Food and Agriculture Organization FAO.
3. Food Sovereignty Prize Honorable Mention awarded by The Community Food Security Coalition (CFSC) of the USA.
4. G-BIACK has also been nominated twice by Katerva Awards which are an annual set of awards presented for the best sustainability efforts in the world.
