Bungoma's Kimaeti Farmers Two-Day Training

On the 17th and 18th of July 2025, farmers from Kimaeti in Bungoma County gathered for an impactful training session aimed at improving agricultural productivity and sustainability. The workshop equipped participants with GROW BIOINTENSIVE farming techniques and practices to enhance yields and improve livelihoods. With renewed knowledge and practical skills, the farmers are now better prepared to transform their farms and contribute to food sovereignty in the region.

Benchmarking Visit to G-BiACK by OACK

The Organic Agriculture Center of Kenya (OACK) recently conducted a benchmarking visit to G-BiACK, gaining hands-on insight into best practices in G-BiACK's work in sustainable agriculture. The exchange provided a platform for sharing innovative techniques, success stories, and practical approaches to soil health, composting, leadership, management and community-based farming. The visit highlighted the importance of collaboration in advancing organic agriculture across the country.
